Statement of historical significance and description of property:

B1139

Approaches consist of timber piles in groups of five spaced at 10 foot intervals and sloped inward toward top to spread weight of load. Heavy timber horizontal and diagonal tie bars connect members into continuous structure. Timber members are bolted together with steel bolts having an 8' pointed start configuration.

Central span consists of thin membered deep steel truss with steel plates perpendicular to tracks, mounted on cylindrical steel encased stone piers.
